WEDNESDAY MORNING.—MAY 26, 1860.

Those who want to add intervention to non-intervention for the Democratic platform, and then claim to be Democrats of excellence, and then show themselves as unsound and inconsistent, only show that they are not posted up. They have not read the record. They ought to read the letter of Stephens, where they will find the history of our past territorial policy in brief, plain and truthful.

If Douglas is wrong, the whole party has all wrong for the last dozen years, and it is not to be trusted now; for, if it be right, there is no telling how long it will stay so. A party that can, at this late day, deny its record, or constitute it away, does not promise well for the future.

We don't want intervention to prohibit, and we, if it is assumed, don't need it to establish; but as we may need it to protect, we discard the doctrine we have preached for ten or twelve years.

This intervention to protect is no better than intervention to prohibit for the South. The power to protect does not include the power to prohibit. All know that the two powers differ in theory, yet the power to protect includes the power to destroy. The Legislature of this State has the power to protect slavery, but no power to prohibit or destroy it. Suppose our legislature, by some miraculous change, should become slave-free, backed up by the people at home, it would repeal all laws protecting slavery; and then, that party would probably gradually leave the State. They could make all the worse for the South.

The South was wise when she resisted this right of Congress to interfere at all, to make any law on the subject. If she is wise, she will never consent to the existence of this power, unless compelled to do it by the decision of the Supreme Court.

The opposition to the Democratic party exulted over the failure to make a nomination at Charleston. They flattered themselves that they had seen the end of the Democratic party. They had better not while before they are out of the woods.

The Republicans at Chicago generally got a better view of the case. Privately they whispered that Douglas was stronger than ever in the North, and had gained strength in the South. They dreaded nothing but his nomination.

The Convention at Baltimore will only increase the determination of the party. This section South is about to very little, and we believe it will. The party will not suffer a faction to control either its principles or nomination. This faction will be overwhelmed in the South.

The Democratic Convention will assemble at Baltimore on the 18th day of June next. The various railroads have arranged for the round trip to Baltimore and return, from June 14th to July 1st—both inclusive.

Persons going from the South will find the same arrangements through the various lines represented in one city.

The old reliable mail line, and all the railroads represented here through their agents, will be pleased to supply tickets to Baltimore upon this occasion.

ARNOLD Plummer, of Pennsylvania, has been instructed by the Democracy of Clarion county to vote for Douglas. Col. Lester Baker says, at Washington, that Pennsylvania will be strong against Douglass at Baltimore than it was at Charleston.

The officers don't know much about the people, especially Mr. Buchanan's officers.

The Charleston Mercury is not pleased with the signs of the times. The editor sees symptoms of flight and fight in his recession literature. He ought to have known these were well to look for anything else. They are not the sort that stay informed and are made of.

A CITIZEN OF FLOYD COUNTY.

The True Character of the Richmond Convention.

Honorable E. Barnwell Elliott, of South Carolina, in reply to interrogatories put to him about the Richmond Convention, which is held in the Charleston Mercury, of the 10th inst., gives the following account of the party based on national principles, that is, principles common to all portions of the United States:

The Richmond Convention is the result of a meeting of the South, and was held in a room on the corner of Main and Market Streets, in the city of Richmond, Va.

The South was more numerous than the North.

The South was more numerous than the North.</

TASKS—Those who would have money will study their own interests when they want trunks of any kind, valises, carpet-bags, traveling trunks, or leather-bound boxes, to call at the Trunk Emporium of Edward Stewart, No. 225 Market street, south side, between Second and Third streets. If you would buy a good article low go there.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY AT COST.—P. W. Ramsey, on Third street, between Main and Market, is selling out at cost, for cash only. He has a great variety of fine watches, jeweler's, silver ware, clocks, spectacles, gold pens, etc. Call and see for yourselves.

FOR A time when there is greatest fear, the stock of dry lumber, doors, blinds, &c., will fall short, owing to the vast amount of improvements in Louisville, which is interesting to the public to know that Alexander, Ellis & Co., have enlarged their factory and have now half several million of dry lumber. Call at their office on Main street, nearly opposite the Galt House, or at their factory on Fulton, above Preston street.

A. P. W. Ramsey, on Third street, between Main and Market, is selling his entire stock of fine watches, clocks, jewelry and silver ware at first cost, for cash only.

TASKS—Among the places worthy of the attention of the visitors to Louisville at the present time, is the great trunk manufacturer and emporium of J. H. McCleary, on the northeast corner of Fourth and Main streets. His large manufacture enables him to supply trunks, valises, bonnet and hat boxes, carpet bags, bureau trunks, etc., of the very best quality, supported by low prices.

S. W. McMillen's, on Fourth and Main, between Second and Third streets, will please give the following address:
